Historic night for Republicans

Gritton unseats Conway to give GOP first fiscal court majority; Goodlett elected mayor

By Ben Carlson
New staff

The Anderson County Fiscal Court will have a Republican majority for the first time in the county's history come January despite Democrats holding nearly a 2-to-1 margin in voter registration.

In what will go down in history as the greatest Republican wave to ever hit the county, the GOP also held onto the county clerk's seat and apparently elected a Republican to represent it in the state House of Representatives.

Just down Main Street, the Lawrenceburg City Council largely held serve, as councilman Sandy Goodlett blew past challengers James Ritchey and Tracy Hicks to be elected Lawrenceburg's next mayor.

All other incumbent council members were re-elected, with newcomer Wendy Bruce Shouse added to the mix.

Republican Orbrey Gritton soundly defeated incumbent Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway on Tuesday night, marking just the second time in the county's history that a Republican will hold that office.

Fellow Republicans and political newcomers Mike Riley and Meredith Hyatt Lewis will join Gritton as magistrates on the fiscal court after defeating incumbent Democrat magistrates Buddy Sims and Forrest Dale Stevens.

When combined with incumbent Republican Magistrate Jureta Wells who ran unopposed, the GOP will control the court.

Convicted
drug dealer
calls 911, asks for ride to jail

Ransdell ID's self as 'crazy drug dealer man' in text messages

From staff reports

A man granted a diverted sentence on charges of distributing methamphetamine and endangering the welfare of a child turned himself into police Friday by calling 911 and asking to be picked up.

Justin Ransdell, 22, whose address on court records is listed as 645 Stratton Road, Salvisa, apparently called 911 Friday afternoon and asked for a ride to jail. He was picked up at a residence on Nevins Station Road by Anderson County Sheriff's deputy Brian Boggs and later transported to the Shelby County Detention Center.

Ransdell was charged in April of 2013 on meth distribution and endangering the welfare of a minor, according to court documents that included text messages he exchanged with another person while setting up a drug sale. Those text messages are part of the court record and show that Ransdell identified himself in those messages as "crazy drug dealer man."

Tears flow as Marching Bearcats fall just short of state title dream

John Herndon

I've seen the tears flow before. I saw them that night when Scott County hit some ridiculous 3-pointers and rallied from nine points down to beat Anderson County in the Eighth Region basketball final.

I was there that night when the Anderson County softball team, ranked in the state's top 10, threw up a clunker in the regional softball tournament and went home early.

And I was on the Anderson County sideline when a game-tying field goal attempt fell just short on the last play of the state football semifinal against Pulaski County last November.

I've witnessed the tears numerous times in many different locales over the years.

Seeing Ebony Whiteside flash her brilliant smile wasn't unusual.

That she flashed it during a medical appointment that included an injection and a battery of medical tests can be chalked up to the fact that she enjoyed every minute of her visit to the newly opened Anderson County Health Department Family Clinic.

The clinic opened to at least one rave review Monday morning, that coming from Whiteside, who just missed being the clinic's inaugural patient but was its second.

This July, a bench warrant was issued for his arrest for methamphetamine distribution and he returned to court in August for a hearing to have his diverted sentence revoked, according to court documents.

He was allowed, however, to stay on the diverted sentence, those documents said.

Probation and parole requested that diverted sentence to be terminated again, this time because Ransdell "absconded probation supervision" and had misdemeanor convictions for possession of a controlled substance and DUI, according to court documents.

professional."

The opening marked the first time a health department in Kentucky has launched such a clinic, which is open to walk-in patients as well as by appointment and features acute and chronic care for anyone in need of medical attention.

Health Director Tim Wright said the idea for the clinic surfaced after Anderson Primary Care closed earlier this year, leaving thousands of Medicaid patients without an in-county provider.

Not that it's only for Medicaid patients. The clinic also accepts a wide range of private insurances, including Bluegrass Family Health, United Health Care, Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield, CIGNA, Aethna, Tri-Care and Humana.

For Whiteside, though, the clinic means she will not have to travel outside of her hometown to receive medical care.

"I've been looking for a new family care doctor," she said, adding that she received a full physical and a flu shot during her visit.

"It's nice to be able to receive this service right here in Lawrenceburg and not have to drive out of town."

Whiteside said he learned about the clinic while discussing another issue with Wright and right away offered to be a "guinea pig."

"I have no complaints," she said. "The services were excellent ... they exceeded my expectations."

Wright said his staff was already busy on their first day in business, with more appointments scheduled that day and 25 more already scheduled for the week.

to utilize this," Wright said. "It's something that was needed and we're happy to be able to provide it."

Wright added that four or five other health departments are watching to see how it goes and could launch clinics of their own if his is successful.

"This is for everyone who needs a primary care provider," Wright said during a recent interview. "This will provide acute care — 'I have a sore throat,' or chronic care, like diabetes, high blood pressure or cholesterol."

The facility includes lab services to test for strep, flu and other illnesses, and refers X-rays and other diagnostic services out locally, when possible.

Wright said he has had to invest minimal money to get the facility going, which will need 12 to 14 patients each day to break even.

"We already have the building, we're already paying to have the lights on," Wright said. "That's why we think this can be successful."

On Monday, Wright and others were busy working out the final kinks as they geared up for more patients, including putting the final touches on a paperless system that will check patients in and, once the visit is over, automatically bill their insurance companies.

Lending a hand Monday was Delwin Jacoby, APRN, who previously sat on the Anderson County Board of Health and has expertise in setting up clinics.

"We're excited about this," Wright said after taking a moment to thank Whiteside for coming in. "We think this is going to work very well."

The real reason tourism here stinks

Column as I see 'em ... Most of you will be happy to have this election over with if for no other reason than to stop hearing Mitch and Alison berate each other a thousand times a day. Me? I can finally stop listening to local politicians tell us what they will do to fix our tourism dilemma. Let's face it. Aside from what appears to be at least some action by the county-run tourism authority, this community is all but inept at taking advantage of tourism opportunities. In fact, most wouldn't know tourism if it came right up and bit 'em in the backside. I know that because, with some regularity, tourism does bite them and nary a one even knows they've been bitten, let alone where. Want some proof? Then chew on the following. Misery Manor just drew thousands of visitors from all corners of Kentucky and more than a few states. Busload and after busload rolled into town throughout October, along with cars stuffed the gills with people actually willing to come here for something other than bourbon. I'd bet dollars to donuts that we're the only county in Kentucky where the sheriff is more adept at attracting tourists than any other public organization, and he's not even trying! Of course I'm not sure city government knew the event existed, being that it wasn't mentioned on the city's own

Ben Carlson
Publisher

If those involved were even remotely serious about tourism, they'd make information or brochures available (which also probably don't exist) at events like Misery Manor, encouraging visitors to either check out other areas of our fair city, or at least come back when what we have to offer is actually open.

Google some places of interest. They call? Nothing. They email? Nothing again. They try the city's official website and, that's right, not the first mention of tourism or anything else, that is unless you want to pay your water bill.

Think that family will just leave Wild Turkey or Four Roses and wander into town after that lousy experience? Of course not, but you can bet their wallets full of money they'll be hightailing it to Versailles or Bardstown, thanks to those communities having professional-looking websites telling visitors where to eat, shop and have a good time.

Now, Google a little harder and there is a very rudimentary website that is linked to the county's tourism authority, which at least includes a contact name and number. Of course it didn't even mention Misery Manor, either, but I'm sure that's the sheriff's fault, right?

The very idea that a county as relatively affluent as ours, with as many smart people as ours and with so much to offer as ours can't even figure out how to acknowledge one of its top tourist draws isn't only sad, it's borderline incompetent. That's why, more than any other reason, I've hammered away against a restaurant tax to fund tourism, whether city officials believe those discussions have taken place or not.

It's also why it won't make a dang bit of difference if the county relents and allows the city to glom onto its tourism authority, restaurant tax or not. If those involved were even remotely serious about tourism, they'd make information or brochures available (which also probably don't exist) at events like Misery Manor, encouraging visitors to either check out other areas of our fair city, or at least come back when what we have to offer is actually open.

They'd also have that information available during that tiny little event known as the 127 Yard Sale, not to mention our annual Burgoo Cookoff, which is a proven draw for tourists. I run the cookoff and can promise you that each and every agency mentioned above has been invited to participate and each and every one of them has said no. (OK, the city did, but just once.)

This bunch might not know when or where tourism bites them, but I'll bet they know they've been bitten now.

The Lawrenceburg man who nearly became president

James Beauchamp "Champ" Clark was born near Lawrenceburg on March 7, 1850. As a boy he worked on farms in Anderson County. By the time he was 62 years old he had become the speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, was the ranking Democrat official in the nation, and the leading Democratic candidate for president going into the 1912 Democrat nominating convention.

Bill McHugh
Guest columnist

While working as a farm hand in Anderson County, James took every advantage to learn. He read all the material he could buy or borrow and debated with anyone that opposed his views. By the time he was about 17 he was teaching school at Glensboro in Anderson County. By 1870, Clark had become a very popular teacher. It was said he was far ahead of his times in his teaching techniques and abilities.

Clark left Anderson County and enrolled in Transylvania University. After three years he was expelled for shooting at a fellow student. He transferred to Bethany College in West Virginia where he graduated in 1873. He also attended Cincinnati Law School before becoming president of Marshall College. At age 23, he was the youngest college president in the history of the United States. Eventually he moved to Missouri, married, and was admitted to the bar in 1875.

Clark never forgot his Kentucky roots. In a letter to his Lawrenceburg friend Mr. Will Shouse, he wrote, "You know of

Put pumpkins to other good uses

Pumpkins, pumpkins and more pumpkins.

It's that time of year when we see them everywhere. Take advantage of the leftovers after this week-end and you'll find a whole host of things to do with them. Since I'm all about learning interesting, though sometimes useless, facts let's start with a little history.

The name pumpkin started out as "pepon," so named by the Greeks, meaning large melon. The French then adjusted it to "pompon," which was changed by the English to "pumpion." American colonists are the ones who finally changed it to pumpkin.

The use of pumpkins has been both practical and nutritious throughout its history. Native Americans dried strips of pumpkin and wove them into mats. I imagine they had a rodent problem, though. They also roasted long strips on an open fire. The colonists cut off the top, removed the seeds, added milk, spices and honey, then baked it in the hot ashes of a wood fire.

Pumpkins have a long history of being used medicinally. They were once recommended as a cure for freckles, snakebites and to help men avoid prostate cancer. The fact is pumpkins are good for you. Just 1 cup of puree provides 80 calories with 18 grams of carbohydrates, 20 percent of the daily recommended dose of vitamin C and 310 percent of vitamin A.

While cut up pumpkins are relished by deer, after it's cooked, it is also excellent for the health of your dogs and cats. Pumpkin puree (not pie filling from a can) helps our furry friends with a variety of ailments. It is a great source of fiber and can help our pets with constipation, diarrhea and an upset tummy. Just add a tablespoon or two to their regular food.

If you have pets that struggle to keep their weight down, then try replacing a portion of their food with the same portion of puree. It will make them feel full without the calories.

Pumpkin seeds are also good for our pets. They're high in essential fatty acids and antioxidants. The oil from seeds and skin are a great source of Vitamin A, beta-carotene, potassium and iron, reducing your pet's chance of developing cancer. See, you knew there was a reason you planted all those pumpkins. The puree can be frozen in freezer bags and stored for up to a year.

Those of us with a green thumb can probably find a different use for those jack-o-lanterns. Simply add potting soil and put in a plant. They can stay on the porch for a while or be planted in the ground.

Eventually they'll compost right back into the ground, feeding everything around it.

If you're still looking for a few trees to put in the ground and have been admiring all the fall colors starting to burst onto our landscape, then here's your list. For reds get red maple, or black gum for a deeper red. Oak will add a dull red. To add orange and yellow, get sugar maple. Elm will give you that light gold color. Now, get outside while the weather is being reasonable. It's almost November. Happy growing.

Beef producers call for Nov. 20 referendum

Kentucky beef producers have called for a referendum to support the advancement of beef promotion in Kentucky by collecting an additional $1 per head sold.

The Kentucky Cattlemen's Association, as the certified entity, made an application to the Kentucky Board of Agriculture requesting a referendum to further beef promotion in Kentucky. The Kentucky Board of Agriculture approved the request and a referendum date of Nov. 20 has been set.

Creating a "uniquely Kentucky" Beef Checkoff will strengthen beef demand internationally, nationally, state-wide and locally. Funding provided by Kentucky beef producers and spent by Kentucky beef producers, the state checkoff can not only compliment the current programs of the Kentucky Beef Council, but will more aggressively confront beef industry challenges faced by shifting consumer attitudes about beef, rising beef prices and concerns about food safety and animal care.

For over 30 years, Kentucky farmers have invested in their business, knowing that no business, even the beef business, survives without investment, promotion and research.

Recent research conducted by Cornell University found that for each dollar invested by farmers into beef checkoff activities from 2006 - 2013, $11.20 was returned to beef industry producer profit.

Funding a Kentucky Beef Checkoff program means providing funding to support the programs of the Kentucky Beef Council, and supporting areas that have the largest positive impact for Kentucky beef and dairy producers.

Oversight of the funds, if passed, will be the responsibility of the Kentucky Beef Promotion Council. Made up of beef and dairy producers along with industry professionals. Every dollar invested back into the Kentucky Beef Checkoff will go to increase profit opportunities by keeping beef top-of-mind with consumers and by working to ensure a wholesome, safe, and quality beef-eating experience every time.

The referendum will take place at local Kentucky Cooperative Extension Offices on Thursday, Nov. 20. Voting is open to all producers of bovine animals involved in the marketing or sale of bovine animals within Kentucky. For more details, visit www.kycattle.org.

You might be uncertain if changes in your thinking and memory are related to normal changes as you age or if it's something more significant. One of the most basic ways to consider this follows. You might forget where you left the car keys. That's an example of typical forgetfulness that happens to everyone, sometimes just a bit more often as you age. However, holding the car keys and forgetting what they are used for may be a sign of Alzheimer's or other memory problems.

Early detection of Alzheimer's is important because there are some treatments that help maintain memory for a longer period of time. Also, there are conditions that mimic Alzheimer's but those symptoms will disappear once the appropriate treatment

Missouri, married, and was admitted to the bar in 1875. Clark never forgot his Kentucky roots. In a letter to his Lawrenceburg friend Mr. Will Shouse, he wrote, "You know of my early struggles, and how I have fought my way up inch by inch. While my wife was born in Missouri, both her parents were from Kentucky. Her father was a Bennett from Madison County and her mother was a McAfee was from Mercer. So you see ours is a Kentucky family."

Clark practiced law for about 10 years before being elected to the Missouri House of Representatives. In 1892 he was elected to be a United States congressional representative and served as its speaker from 1911 to 1919. His leadership qualities were evident when friends asked him to run for president in 1912. During his presidential campaign the Lawrenceburg native stopped in his childhood home for a political rally. At 10:05 a.m. on Sept. 20, 1911, Clark's train arrived from Louisville. He was greeted by a crowd of about 5,000 supporters in front of the Lawrenceburg Hotel. Before he gave his speech, a dinner was served in honor of the town's distinguished native. The ladies of Lawrenceburg fixed 2,000 gallons of burgoo and baskets filled with "good old country grub." Going into the 1912 Democratic presidential nomination convention, Clark was the clear favorite to win the nomination. The Democrats were more united as they had been for the previous 20 years.

Lawrenceburg native James Beauchamp 'Champ' Clark just missed defeating Woodrow Wilson to be the Democratic party's nominee for president in 1912.

The Republicans on the other hand were split. Teddy Roosevelt was running as a progressive and President Howard Taft as a conservative. All Champ had to do was to secure his party's nomination and he would be assured to be the next president of the United States. The only obstacle in his way was the upstart governor of New Jersey, Woodrow Wilson. During the Progressive Era, Clark was running as a progressive Democrat, Wilson ran as a conservative Democrat. The initial balloting at the Democratic convention Clark was the front runner with more than 100 votes over Wilson. Eventually he secured a majority of all delegate votes. However, the rules of the convention stated that two-thirds of a majority were required for the nomination. During the initial balloting Clark had such a commanding lead that Wilson was willing to concede. Wilson's supporters urged him to stay in the race and then began garnishing support. After lengthy negotiations over six days, with allegations of fraud, and influenced by special interests, the nomination went to Woodrow Wilson on the 46th ballot. Clark was devastated but continued to support his party. He was offered the vice president nomination but declined. Author James Chase calls the 1912 presidential election "the election that changed the country." With such a narrow loss, one cannot help but imagine what might the United States look like today if Clark had become president. Wilson was in favor of creating the Federal Reserve; Clark opposed the act. Wilson got America involved in World War I; Clark opposed that, too. Not too bad for an old Lawrenceburg farm hand.

Eagle Lake Convention Center continues to grow

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

What started as a mission to fill a need for a local venue to host celebrations, gatherings and events in 2005 has grown into a family business for Brad and Susan Smith.

The Eagle Lake Convention & Expo Center is a local family owned and operated business, hosting 180 events this year alone. After returning from college, Susan and Brad Smith's daughters brought their skills back to the family business. Jenna Sims serves as the event coordinator and Hannah Curry oversees the administrative work.

"We experience substantial growth each year," said Sims. "My parents were born and raised in Anderson County. They love this community and wanted to find a way to give back to their community by fulfilling what they saw as a need in Anderson County... a place for locals to host large special occasions in their own backyard."

Sims said the Eagle Lake Convention Center has the perfect space for any occasion.

The Convention Center is designed for more formal events including weddings, receptions, sweet 16's, anniversaries, birthday celebrations, school banquets, church events, and family reunions. The space features rock fireplaces, a dance floor, all hardwood flooring, lit dance balls, stages for DJs or bands, and low-voltage formal lighting. The Ballroom is a 7,000 square foot space that can seat up to 300 guests. Sims said this is the most popular room offered at Eagle Lake that most often hosts their number one booked event, wedding receptions.

The Reception Hall is a 5,000 square foot formal space, which also features an adjoining wall that can be removed to connect to the Ballroom, making it one large space. Sims said the adjoining wall is perfect for the extra large events that host over 500 guests, including the Mercer County High School prom, which they've hosted for the past five years.

The Expo Center offers 23,000 square feet of event space designed for larger events that are typically open to the public such as the 127 sale, auctions, swap meets, cars shows, concerts, and expos of all types. The Expo Center can hold thousands of guests.

Sims said customer's ability to customize events to meet their specific needs is what makes them a cut above the rest. Customers can simply book a room at Eagle Lake and handle all of their own details; catering, décor, cocktails, etc or Eagle Lake can handle all of the event details for customers to insure a stress-free event is offered. There is also no time-limit on the room rentals; it's a flat rate room rental fee and you can utilize the room as many hours as you would like. If the room is not being utilized, Sims said they also allow customers to come in the day before to do any decorating they desire at no extra charge.

"Our customers like that they don't feel boxed in by time limits or catering and cocktail restrictions. We are very flexible to insure customers have the best experience and the desires for their event become a reality," said Sims.

Some of the annual events the Convention Center hosts are the Wild Turkey Corporate Christmas Party, General Cable's Corporate Christmas Party, The Alton Jamboree (a senior citizens dance) ever Friday night, March of Dimes Family Day, Shop With A Cop's Misery Manor Haunted House, the Anderson County Chamber of Commerce Christmas Gala and the Chamber's business and community expo.

"Most people think we only host Anderson County events, but more than half of our event holders come from surrounding counties. We are proud to attract customers from all over to patronize Anderson County," said Sims.

Sims received a bachelor's degree in corporate & organizational communications with a minor in marketing, and Curry in finishing out her degree in business. Sims said it was important to her and her sister to get an education to ensure future growth for the family business.

"The Eagle Lake Convention & Expo Center helps keep money in Anderson County," said Sims. "It gives people an option to host events with their families, friends, teams, and churches right in their own backyard."

Judge-Executive elect Orby Gritton celebrates with his wife Denise and parents Juanita and June after the final results of Tuesday's election were announced at the Anderson County Clerk's Office in Lawrenceburg. Gritton will become just the second Republican in Anderson County history to hold the office and the first to reside over a Republican-controlled fiscal court.

HISTORIC

posed, the party in January will control four of the seven seats on the fiscal court.

Incumbent Republican County Clerk Jason Denny trounced Democrat challenger Laura Link Gillis by a wide margin following a race in which Gillis harshly criticized Denny, along with his staff.

The Republican wave was also felt at the national level, where Anderson County voters helped propel U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell past Democrat challenger Alison Lundergan Grimes by a 58 to 35 percent local margin.

For Congress, Anderson County voters helped Republican Andy Barr retain his seat by defeating Democrat Elisabeth Jensen by a nearly 70-30 margin.

For judicial seats, Lawrenceburg attorney Marie Hellard easily outpaced incumbent Family Court Judge John David Myles, winning 75 percent of the votes cast in Anderson County, and incumbent District Court Judge Donna Dutton apparently retained her seat by defeating Emily Farrar-Crockett.

Judge-Executive

Gritton, a political newcomer, won nearly every precinct in defeating Conway by nearly 1,500 votes.

Moments after the final results were announced, Gritton said he wasn't sure what the outcome would be heading into election night.

"I knew with Mr. Conway as the incumbent, we were playing from behind from the beginning," said Gritton, surrounded by family and supporters who were ready for a celebratory dinner. "Not having done this before, I didn't know what to expect."

He said his victory shows that people did not vote along party lines.

"A lot of people were voting for people, not parties," he said.

Gritton congratulated Conway on running a good campaign and said he's looking forward to his new job.

"I'm going to do everything I can to keep moving Anderson County forward," he said.

"The people of Anderson County have spoken," Conway said. "I wish them all the best of luck."

Fiscal court

The only Democrat to win a challenged seat was Rodney Durr, who defeated Republican Bill Patterson 652-381 for 1st District magistrate and will replace Democrat David Ruggles, who did not seek re-election.

In the 2nd District, Riley defeated Stevens, the incumbent, by 970-557 votes.

In the 4th District, Lewis defeated Sims 896-503.

County clerk

Denny, whose office came under fire from Gillis when she compared customer service in the clerk's office to having a root canal, delivered a resounding victory over the Democrat challenger, defeating her 5,829-2,966.

Denny said afterward that he was "humbled" by the result.

"I'm honored," said Denny. "I'm appreciative of the support I received during this campaign and will continue to improve the clerk's office," he said.

Asked if he was surprised by his margin of victory, he said yes.

"I'm very surprised because I don't ever take anything for granted," he said. "I never dreamed it would be this kind of night ... it was a hard race."

Mayor

Goodlett, a four-term councilman, will replace current Mayor Edwinna Baker, who did not seek re-election.

Goodlett received 1,374 votes to secure the position, defeating James Ritchey (1,220) and Tracy Hicks (640).

Afterward, Goodlett said he is happy to have his fellow council members return to office with him as mayor.

"It makes it even better with the return of the existing city council with the addition of Wendy Bruce Shouse," he said, adding that he's glad the election, which turned contentious at times, was over.

"I'm extremely relieved to have it behind me," said Goodlett. "I worked diligently, and it paid off. I walked many miles and hung many door hangers."

City council

Shouse was the top vote getting Tuesday night and was the only candidate in the race to top 2,000 votes.

Re-elected were incumbents Ken Evans (1,594), Bobby Durr (1,834) Steven Rucker (1,586), Paul Thomas Vaughn (1,639), and George Geoghegan III (1,457).

Not placing among the top six were Joe Marshall (1,269), David Allen Kays (1,087) and Dan Stumph (1,185).

State representative

Spencer County Republican James Tipton defeated

Anderson County Democrat Kent Stevens by 14 votes here, but results were not yet available at press time in Spencer County.

About two hours after the polls closed, Tipton said by phone that based on results he was receiving from precincts in Spencer County, he was winning about 2-to-1 there and received about 68 percent of the vote in Bullitt County, which includes two precincts in the 53rd House District.

Tipton said he wasn't ready to declare himself the winner Tuesday night, but was feeling good about his chances.

"It looks promising," he said, adding that the Republican victories in Anderson County didn't surprise him very much.

"In talking to people, I realized that Anderson County is a very conservative county," said Tipton.

Literary pumpkins display Ward students' creativity

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

Students from Lisa Hudson's fifth grade reading class at Emma B. Ward Elementary unleashed their creativity this week to create pumpkins resembling their favorite literary characters.

Twenty students participated.

The pumpkins were judged by a panel and awarded first, second and third prize for best of show.

For Brax Briscoe, the pumpkin was a personal statement about his faith. He depicted Jesus Christ from his favorite book "The Action Bible," which depicts the Bible with comic book like art.

"I didn't care about the competition, we just wanted people to know Jesus died on the cross for our sins," said Briscoe.

The "Jesus Pumpkin" was painted a flesh color with blue eyes, brown hair, a beard and a crown of thorns from a Hawthorn Tree that grows near his barn. It took him two days to complete the pumpkin.

Troy Knight made a pumpkin inspired by the book "The Giver." The pumpkin depicts a face with large eyes with words inside them that revolve around themes in the book such as "No joy," "No war" and "No marriage." In the novel, there is no pain or war, but there's also no traditional human emotions such as love and joy. Knight said the pumpkin focus on the main character Jonas' eyes, enabling people to see what he sees through the written themes on his eyes.

Kendall Harper depicted Katniss Everdeen from "The Hunger Games." She painted a face on the pumpkin, big red lips, blue eyes and braid hair made out of yarn.

Harper said she loves "The Hunger Games" because there is "so much action and adventure."

Hudson this is the Sixth Annual Literary Pumpkin Contest.

This year's winners were Aaliyah Oliver, first place for her "Bad Kitty" pumpkin, Braxton Briscoe, second place for his Jesus pumpkin, Dylan Partlow, for his Wilbur and Charlotte pumpkin from "Charlotte's Web," Haylie Cleaver, third place for her Olaf from "Frozen" pumpkin and Lauren Aguilar won an honorable mention for her Hello Kitty pumpkin.

"It gets the students excited about reading. It's a fun way for them to celebrate their favorite book characters," said Hudson.

"I love seeing their use of creativity. I'm excited to see what they bring in each year."

NEW LOGO FOR CHRISTIAN ACADEMY

Steve Shryock from Bluegrass Signs & Art, left, and Jason Gribbins, headmaster of The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg, installed a new logo last week. Gribbins said in a press release that the new sign is another outward symbol of the great works and achievements that are going on inside the school. He said the staff is very pleased with the quality, professionalism and personal attention they received from Shryock.

Christian Academy teacher 'raising bar' in math curriculum

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

If you step into J.B. Barnett's classroom, you're likely to hear a sound you don't normally hear in a math class, laughter.

Laughter is Barnett's specialty. In addition to teaching, he tours across the nation imitating Red Skeleton comedy skits.

"He's funny," said Heather Ward, an eighth grader at the Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg. "Math isn't my favorite subject but his class is fun."

Barnett said he tries to make learning enjoyable and teach concepts at the students' level.

"Every day I step in the classroom, I act like I'm 14. We often forget how we were," said Barnett.

He tries to put into perspective that though he's maybe solved a particular math problem hundreds of times, it's the first time the students are seeing this.

"They just need more practice. You have to work with them," he said.

Jeremiah Robinson, a freshman at the Christian Academy, described Barnett's class as "not all work but not all play, either."

"All you have to do is have one of his classes, and you'll never forget him," said Robinson.

It's not all fun and games in Barnett's class, he admitted to having high expectations of his students.

"Kids will remember a teacher that was strict, fair and honest. I never tell a student that they can't," he said.

Though it's only Barnett's first year teaching at the Christian Academy, Jason Gribbins, headmaster at the Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg, said he credits Barnett with helping to "raise the bar" in their school's math curriculum.

Barnett teaches algebra, geometry and pre-calculus.

"The students really relate to him, and we're already seeing improvement in students' math scores," said Gribbins.

Barnett has been a math and science teacher for 24 years, mostly at private schools. He's had the opportunity to teach in Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Mexico and Austria. Of all the places he's traveled to teach, he said Egypt was his favorite.

He said he was often amazed at how seriously students took their education abroad.

"I'd have a student that got a 90 percent on a test, and he was disappointed. He'd come in and ask why he didn't get a 97 percent or better," said Barnett. "I find that students want to learn when I up the ante. If you're not overly demanding, I find that the students will work to reach your expectations."

Over the years, Barnett has had the opportunity to catch up with his students. He said loves hearing how he made a difference in their lives.

On one occasion, he had dinner at a restaurant and one of his former students, who was his server, recognized him. He said she sat down at his table and they talked for a good while, catching up on what was new in each other's lives. He went to pay his bill and the cashier/cook, who was also a former student, kindly told him "his money was no good there."

Though Barnett is not a rich man, he said he considers himself rich with the many experiences he's had in his life.

One of those experiences of a lifetime, he said, was meeting his idol Richard Bernard, better known as "Red Skeleton" of the "Red Skeleton Show," which was televised from 1951 through 1971. He was known for his humorous portrayal of a variety of characters including Freddie the Freeloader, Clem Kadiddlehopper, Sheriff Dead Eye, San Fernando Red, Willie Lump Lump and Cauliflower McPugg to name a few.

Growing up, Tuesday nights were special to Barnett because it meant watching the "Red Skeleton Show." He recalls rushing to get his chores and homework accomplished for those 30-minutes of laughter and family fun.

He finally got the chance to meet Bernard in 1989. They talked for a good while in his dressing room about his comedy and the impact he had on Barnett's life.

When Bernard died on Sept. 17, 1997, Barnett could think of no better way to honor him than to carry on the Red Skeleton legacy.

He received blessings from Bernard's estate to use his name. With no acting experience, Barnett's wasn't sure how he was going to live up to the memory of Red Skeleton, but he knew he wanted to try. He said many people told him that he couldn't do it, which just made him more determined than ever.

Luckily, he found actor Bob Allen who was able to coach him. On July 21, 2001, he made the debut of his show "Red Skeleton Remembered" where he paid homage to Bernard by portraying some of his popular characters.

He typically performs around 60-70 shows a year.

"My biggest thing is I never let money interfere with a performance," he said. "If God allows me that performance, maybe it's because someone needs the gift of laughter."

Barnett gets a great satisfaction when guests catch up to him after the performance to tell him how hard he made them laugh.

"I've crammed a lot into this life. If I want to do something I do it," said Barnett.

He encourages his students to follow their heart and live life on their own terms.

"I tell my students, set your goals, dream your dreams, plan your work and work your plan and you'll have a successful life," he said.

BAND

I saw them again on Saturday. Only the venue had changed.
"In third place," the public address announcer said, "Anderson County."
On the artificial surface at Eastern Kentucky University's Roy Kidd Stadium, tears flowed in the gathering of Anderson County Marching Bearcats.
If not sobbing, the remainder of these talented high school musicians appeared stunned. After all, this was to be their year in the Kentucky Music Educators Association marching band competition.
Whether it is in the athletic arena or any other endeavor, the emotions run deeper when the expectations are higher. And over the past three years, the Anderson band has been performing when the musical stakes are at their peak.
In other words, they are mighty good.
To put in basketball terms, they've been to three straight Final Fours. This year's show was a rocking tribute to comedians called "Comic Relief." The band performed while making various formations in front of giant photos of Bill Cosby, Rodney Dangerfield, Jerry Seinfeld, Will Ferrell and Robin Williams, who tragically took his life just before the Anderson band gave its first performance.
The Marching Bearcats has performed with gusto through a season that saw them win Class 4A at every single contest in which they had participated before.
They'd even brought home the grand championship trophy - best of all classes - in the Louisville Classic last month.
The state championship was in their sights, but Madisonville-North Hopkins, the band that denied Anderson a state title last year, prevailed again. Grant County, which Anderson defeated seven days earlier in regional competition, came in second.

"We're satisfied, I guess," Anderson band director Patrick Brady said. He was smiling, but the disappointment was obviously beyond masking. "We are just glad to be in the mix and be in the top groups in the state."
After reading the judges' comments, Brady discovered his band had been docked two points on a technicality that the casual observer might never notice. He'd also known that his band, which had often prompted fans of other schools to stop what they were doing just to watch, had not played its best on the biggest stage of the year.
Brady came to Anderson six years ago and has won over admirers. But, unless someone has a child in the band, the community contact with his band is usually limited to seeing a performance at football and basketball games. Watching the program's growth - the marching band now counts approximately 100 members, nearly tripling in six years - has been impressive.
The work ethic that Brady demands is on display to anyone driving down Broadway or US 127 Bypass. The Marching Bearcats are out there in the school parking lot, perfecting their show in the rain, cold or heat. And Saturdays with no competition are still work days in the parking lot.
When you work that hard, not being able to close the deal hurts even more. It's true whether it is a basketball tournament, selling real estate or playing in the marching band.
I've been a Brady fan since he came to Lawrenceburg. His passion for what he's doing is teaching more than B-flats or time signatures. It's what makes a great teacher, regardless of the subject matter.

Color guard member Makenzie Perry and sousaphone player Josh Massie perform during the state semifinals Saturday afternoon at Madison Southern High School in Berea.

I've become a bigger fan this year as my youngest daughter became a member of the Anderson County Marching Bearcats and I am more than thrilled that she had the opportunity. This fall, I attended band contests for the first time in 15 years and was often amazed by the group's zeal and talent.
I don't know much about the ins and outs of band contests but I knew enough to know Anderson had a chance to win it all.
Saturday afternoon, something was wrong. The Marching Bearcats had a subpar performance in the state semifinal. "I was skeptical that we would actually make it (to Saturday night's final)," Brady said.
A bitter cold and brutal wind at Madison Southern High School played havoc with the show. The only consolation came in the knowledge that every other band was dealing with the same conditions.

Even with a show that Brady called "the worst we have had since about July when we were learning the show," Anderson survived and advanced to play in ECU's 20,000-seat stadium.
The performance in the finals was much better but not perfect. "They definitely stepped it up from this morning's performance," Brady said. "We prepared ourselves with hot hands covering our horns and they did some little techniques to get their lips to work. I was satisfied with tonight. I feel we did ourselves justice."

The Marching Bearcats are set to perform at Friday's football playoff game against Covington Scott, then have one final show Saturday at the Mid-States Competitor at Mason, Ohio, near Cincinnati. It's a fun competition against bands from Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan.
Fun. That's what the Marching Bearcats' show has been about all year long.
Saturday night in Richmond, there was hurt. The tears flowed.
But Sunday, the Marching Bearcats were remembering the words of band member Trey Darnell as he introduced every one of their shows.
"Don't forget to smile."

Studio unveils expansion plans during Art Trail

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

For Karine and Matthew Maynard, the Fourth Annual Art Trail was an opportunity to share plans for expansion with the public.

More than 40 attended the Maynard Studios groundbreaking ceremony during the Art Trail on Saturday.

In January 2013, the Maynard Studios moved their blacksmith shop from the front to a large shop just behind the preexisting one due to limited space.

"We thought we'd end up growing out of this space in five years. It's a year and a half and already we need to add on," said Matthew. "It's a good problem to have."

The plan is to add 1,600-square-feet to the preexisting 3,000-square-foot shop and add 700 to 800-square-feet for a break room.

Since Maynard Studios typically works on larger private pieces such staircase railing, Matthew said they needed more space to be able to work on multiple projects.

The Maynards' work is becoming more well known, allowing them to have more jobs across the U.S. They've recently completed projects in San Francisco and West Virginia.

"We have jobs booked through August next year," said Matthew. "It's exciting."

The expansion will allow the Maynards to add two new staff positions, one full-time blacksmith and a new part-time employee.

Maynard Studios was one of four stops along the Art Trail, which included Marianne Brown Pottery, Elements Clay Studio and Crosswinds Pottery in Harrodsburg.

dio is open year-round to the public, this is the only time of year the other studios open their doors to the public. They're typically open by appointment only. The artists along the Art Trail said they all enjoyed being able to interact with the public and share about what they do.

Marianne Brown is a potter and creates all sorts of pottery, typically in her signature red shade. Brown said she noticed that customers flock to the eye-catching red hue.

She often uses clay stamps around the pottery to create borders. She said her dark green pottery and red pottery is actually the same glaze but a different firing process. The reduction firing process is when there is a lack of oxygen, causing the cooper in the glaze to turn red, she explained.

Brown said no two pieces of pottery she creates are ever the same.

Each of the artists has their own style and niche. Cynthia Carr, owner of Crosswinds Pottery, creates what she describes as "functional wheel-thrown pottery." She likes to utilize old rusty metal including gears, springs and rotors to create something new.

She has a three-bent tobacco barn that she uses to house her "architectural salvage."

Susan Burge, owner of Elements Clay Studio, describes her work as "functional with a fun flair."

Her pottery featured shades of sea foam green and blue that slightly resembled the peacock's feathers. Burge said she loves to play around with glaze to create fun pops of color.

Art Trail guests painted pottery at her studio Saturday. Her studio also features crochet and clay throwing classes.

Burge said she had a good turn out for the Art Trail. She

Tourism commission creates executive director position

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

The Anderson County Tourism Commission made a unanimous decision to accept a proposal for a part-time executive director position with an annual salary of $12,000 at a meeting Oct. 14.

As outlined in the job description, the executive director will be responsible for performing administrative and marketing duties to simulate economic development and promote tourism within Anderson County.

Some of the outlined duties of the position include coordinating all aspects of monthly board meetings, coordinating annual strategic planning discussions, coordinating annual budget discussions, directing administrative matters including budget requests, maintaining tourism accreditation standards with other organizations, preparing and implementing improvement plans, designs and developing programs for special interest groups and working directly with economic development, county and city government to promote tourism, business, events and conventions within the Anderson County area.

At the previous tourism commission meeting, there was discussion about Chairperson Pam Brough taking on the executive director role, but it has not been decided at this point who will take on the executive director role.

If Brough does take on the executive director responsibility, she will have to resign from her position as chairperson because the executive director and chairperson position have to be two different people. Also in accordance to the tourism commission's bylaws, no member of the commission can receive compensation for service on the commission, which would prevent Brough from being the chairperson and taking compensation for the executive director role.

Brough said she felt the decision to create an executive director position and outline the duties was a step in the right direction.

"We have a lot to do, but we have a lot started," said Brough.

In upcoming meetings,

Brough said the commission members will need to discuss bylaws, advertising and developing a long-term strategic plan for Anderson County tourism.

She emphasized that it's important for the commission set the proper foundation first.

The tourism commission will meet again 9 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12 at the Anderson County Chamber of Commerce office.

Nothing miserable about this year's Misery Manor

Annual fundraiser sets record for proceeds, visitors

By Ben Carlson
News staff

Misery Manor was not only bigger and badder than last year, it also raised more money for its intended purpose: Shop With a Cop.

Sheriff Troy Young on Monday announced the results of his office's second year of operating Lawrenceburg's only haunted house, saying it outraised and outdrew last year's results.

"It was tremendous," said Young, who was busy with about a dozen volunteers disassembling the massive indoors haunted house at Eagle Lake Convention Center.

"The community really supported us again this year and we are very thankful for that support."

Misery Manor drew 3,334 visitors and cleared $12,502.50 after material and rent expenses were paid. All the $50 or so people who help set up, tear down and performers are unpaid volunteers.

That money will be used for this year's Shop With a Cop, which provides Christmas gifts for Anderson County children in need.

Young said the haunted house, which ran through October and concluded last Friday night, drew plenty of local visitors along with a surprising number others.

"We had people from North Carolina, Michigan, Florida and all over Kentucky," Young said, adding that many weren't satisfied with just one trip through the haunted house.

"We had people go through multiple times, including one lady whose kids went through seven times," he said.

Brad Smith, owner of Eagle Lake, said he's grateful to have Misery Manor on his property, including from a business perspective.

"It's good for us and it's good for Anderson County," he said. "It helps our restaurants and our gas station here at Eagle Lake."

Four busted on heroin, methamphetamine charges

From staff reports

Drug charges, including heroin and methamphetamine, landed four people behind bars last Sunday night.

Arrested were Mark Stinnet, 23, of 433 Eagle St., Harrodsburg; Samantha Conover, 20, of 274 Catlett Lane, Harrodsburg; David Hess II, 28, of 5006 Tealwood Drive, Shelbyville; and Nicole Kampschaeffer, 36, of 5006 Tealwood Drive, Shelbyville.

The vehicle in which they were riding was stopped by deputy Brian Wooldridge of the Anderson County Sheriff's Office on US 127 in Lawrenceburg after he was dispatched about "possible drugs in the trunk" of the car, according to police reports.

Wooldridge pulled them over after seeing the car swerving in its lane, the report says.

A drug-sniffing dog with the Harrodsburg Police Department joined the stop and alerted the officers to the drugs.

Once the trunk was opened, officers found suspected methamphetamine rolled up in paper towels, methamphetamine residue on a glass pipe and syringes with what appeared to be heroine, according to the report.

Kampschaeffer told officers she wasn't aware the drugs were in the car, and Conover admitted the heroin was hers, according to the report.

Conover and Kampschaeffer were held on $5,000 surety bonds; Stinnet and Hess were held on $5,000 cash bonds.

All are scheduled to return to Anderson County District Court on Nov. 6.

Freeman uses struggles to share the Gospel

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

Travis Freeman is well versed at handling adversity with grace. He recently shared his story about how he became the first blind American football player and recently visited First Baptist Church in Lawrenceburg.

Freeman said his story has opened doors through his book “Lights Out: Living in Sightless World,” a recently released movie “23 Blast” and speaking at churches to share the Gospel.

Freeman grew up in Corbin. In June 1993, while in the sixth grade, Freeman woke up with a severe migraine for nine days. He visited the doctor who told him the migraine would go away eventually.

On the 10th day, the migraine was gone just like the doctor predicted, but it was followed with an intense pain in his left eye. His parents took him to the eye doctor, and the doctor didn’t see anything wrong with his eye at the time. He was told to put ice on his eye to reduce the swelling.

Shortly after, both eyes started to hurt and swell horribly. His parents took Freeman back to the eye doctor for a more thorough evaluation to find that he had cavernous sinus thrombosis, a rare form of a sinus infection that resulted in a severe infection behind his eyes.

In July, Freeman was rushed to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, where doctors preformed emergency surgery to remove the infection. The surgery was only supposed to last an hour but took four hours to complete. He spent 17 days at the hospital. Once he emerged from the surgery, Freeman discovered he was blind and would be for the rest of his life.

“I was alive, but I would never see again,” said Freeman.

Freeman later learned how lucky he was to survive. More than half of the individuals with cavernous sinus thrombosis die as a result of the infection. The rest typically like in a vegetated state, Freeman explained. Freeman was one of only two cases worldwide at the time where the infection had only affected his eyes.

The results were devastating. Freeman had to learn how to do everything he had known including walking, dressing himself and learning to read Braille. He entered the seventh grade as the first blind student at his school, but by the end of seventh grade he had accomplished nearly everything he set his mind to except for football.

His parents asked the coach if he could give Freeman something to do to be a part of the team and pointed out that they didn’t expect for him to play. The coach said he wouldn’t do it. If Freeman were to be on his team, he wanted him to play like the other kids. The coach worked it out to where Freeman played as center and the other players helped him indentify where members of the opposing team were located.

He became the first blind American football player and was interviewed by 90 different media outlets. His story was published nationwide.

Freeman went on to play football through-out high school. He received a business administration degree from the University of Kentucky and a Master of Divinity and Doctorate of Philosophy from the Southern Theological Seminary.

Freeman encouraged the congregation to cling to God the most during times of difficulty.

“Don’t allow your circumstances to dictate how you feel about God,” he said. “Allow God to dictate what you think about your circumstances. Look beyond your situation.”

He reminded the congregation of Mark 4:35 where Jesus’ followers were fearful during a bad storm and sought out his help. They asked Jesus, who was sleeping on the boat at the time, why didn’t he care about them and would let them die? And with a few words the winds receded and when he said “peace be still” the waters became calm. Jesus asked his followers “why are you fearful, do you have no faith?”

Freeman said during times of hardship we often make the mistake of assuming God doesn’t care but nothing could be further from the truth.

“In those situations, you can know God cares. Without God when those trials come you have no hope,” he said. “That’s why a relationship with God is so vital. Giving your life to God won’t make life perfect but it will give you hope to face life tomorrow.”

HOW DID YOU PICK YOUR CHURCH?

Some people are looking for a church that – to them – meets THEIR needs. Christ’s church “picks” you, by offering a “gospel” that clearly defines what is acceptable, and accepting only those who act acceptably. What do you think – is it better to become part of a church YOU approve of, or become part of one that intends to include only those who GOD approves of? (A. Blue)

I read this the other day and I am in complete agreement with what is stated. Let me ask a question: “Why do you worship where you NOW attend?” Years ago a woman called me asking, “What do you offer the young people? What youth programs do you offer?” I informed the lady that we offered the same thing to all ages. We offered hope that is found in Jesus Christ and how to live a faithful life before God. She said, you just don’t offer what I am looking for, I will search elsewhere. Sad, but true, many attend where they do because of the fun, food and frolic. Take their fun projects away and they will leave and go elsewhere.

The church of the New Testament is the blood bought body of believers (Matt. 16:18; Acts 20:28; Eph. 5:23-32). I find it very interesting that there was only ONE church in the 1st. century and now there are thousands. What happened? Groups began to leave the Lord and start a church that met their social needs rather than spiritual needs.

CHURCH BRIEFS

Family Worship Center to host 60-year anniversary homecoming

Family Worship Center will celebrate its 60th anniversary 10 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 9. The church was started in a home on Ballard Street by the Rev. Emma Cammuse in 1954.

The guest speaker will be former pastor Kenneth Greene, and the musical guest will be the Rogers Family from Georgia. A potluck dinner will follow the service along with fall festival activities for the kids.

For more information, contact the church at 839-1856.

Apex Ministries celebrates ‘Freedom Sunday’

Brother Aaron Soard will be the guest speaker for “Freedom Sunday” at Apex Ministries at noon Sunday, Nov. 9. Soard is described in a press release as a “man of God who has an incredible testimony of the amazing power of God to break every chain and bondage of the enemy.” Members of the Apex ministries invite the public to come and hear Soard’s message.

Apex Ministries is non-denominational church located at 160 Township Square.

Fox Creek Baptist Church to host ‘Harvest for Haiti’ on Nov. 8

“Harvest for Haiti” is a meal-packing program that involves purchasing food supplies, packaging and shipping meals directly to the people of Haiti. There is no middleman profit in the process, the news release states. Lifeline Ministries supplies the vitamin-enriched ingredients, volunteers package them together, seal the bags and box for shipping. These meals arrive ready for distribution all for about 20 cents per meal.

“Harvest for Haiti” is not a Fox Creek Christian event, but a community event that is taking place at the Fox Creek Christian Church Life Center. Churches, businesses and individuals will be a part of this event. Members of the Fox Creek Baptist Church ask you talk to your church, your youth groups, your friends and co-workers, and call to reserve a spot to pack these basic meals that will feed the hungry. The suggested donation is $25, which pays for 125 meals.

The time slots are 9- 11a.m., 12:30 - 2:30 p.m. and 3- 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 8. For more information, contact Jan Campbell 418-3058 or Lisa Floyd 859-509-0080.

Woman's Club makes holiday candy

From staff reports

Members of the Lawrenceburg Pierian Woman's Club have been busy making candy for the upcoming holiday season, according to a news release.

For the past several years, the sales of chocolate-covered bourbon balls and buckeyes (peanut-butter balls) have raised funds for scholarships and other community-service projects. Colorful holiday-themed tins containing 12 pieces of either type of candy are $12 for Bourbon Balls and $7 for Buckeyes. Call Fern Edgett at 839-9329 or Maria Cataldi at 598-3173 to place an order.

The next monthly meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 20, at the Anderson Public Library. A discussion of the book "To the Nines," by Janet Evanovich, will start at 6:30 p.m., followed by the program and business meeting at 7 p.m.

The agenda will include plans for the club's participation in the Lawrenceburg Christmas Parade to be held Dec. 6. "A Christmas Secret," by Anne Perry, will be distributed for the book discussion at the Jan. 15 meeting. The club does not meet in December.

PLAYOFF PREVIEW

These Eagles fly with a single wing

Peach says unusual attack makes Scott a formidable first-round foe

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

You have heard of old school, but Anderson County will have to deal with old school extreme in the first round of the state football playoffs. The Bearcats host Scott High on Friday, Nov. 7. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

And if you like real throwback football – we are not talking about simply wearing a jersey style from the past – you will love Scott, according to Anderson coach Mark Peach.

“They run the single wing,” Peach says of an offense rarely seen these days. “They will snap it and any one of three different people can receive it and run with it. It is like watching football from the 1960’s or 1970’s. They are very well-coached and their offense is not a gimmick. They know what they are doing and are very good at it. It will be a challenge for us.”

“Their linemen block very well and they are very sound defensively. They are solid in the kicking game. They are just really a throwback.”

— Mark Peach
Anderson County Head Football Coach

Scott comes to town at 6-3 and the No. 3 seed in Class 5A, District 5. The Eagles had one game, against East Jessamine, called in the first quarter because of a lightning storm.

The statistics bear Peach out. The Eagles rank fifth in Class 5A rushing with 257 yards a game, but only have Roberto London, averaging 107 yards a game, in the state’s Top 15 Class 5A runners.

“They are similar to us in some regard,” Peach says. “They have four different guys that can run the ball. Their linemen block very well and they are very sound defensively. They are solid in the kicking game. They are just really a throwback.”

London, a junior, leads Scott with 908 yards in nine games while classmate Deondre Pleasant has added 753. Quarterback Danny Fitzgerald has thrown only 54 passes all year, gaining 401 yards in the process.

Most of all, third year coach Dan Woolley has brought a winning attitude to Scott, which has never enjoyed much sustained football success. Woolley played football at Beechwood High, winning three state championships, and was a member of two national championship teams at Georgetown College.

Other than East Jessamine, Anderson and Scott have only one opponent and trying to glean anything from games at South Oldham would be futile.

Anderson dropped a 52-43 decision at Crestwood the second week of the season. Six weeks later, South defeated Scott 17-6.

While Scott and Anderson have met only three times before, but one of those matchups has a special meaning for Peach and his undefeated 2007 team.

Thos Bearcats opened with a 59-41 win over Scott in the Grant County Bowl that season.

The Bearcats outlasted a pass-happy attack with several big plays. Anderson went on to an unbeaten regular season before being ousted in the second round of the playoffs that year.

“I remember that one well,” Peach said. “They were pass happy. It was a great game and we ended up winning. I don’t think we will see anything like that this week. They are a ground attack. It it just good old fashioned football.”

That is what former Anderson coach Sam Harp thought when the Bearcats traveled to Scott in 1985. The Bearcats were expecting a wishbone attack, but Scott came out and threw 41 times. The Eagle quarterback that night was Doug Pelfrey, who went on to be a standout kicker at the University of Kentucky and went on to a seven-year career with the Cincinnati

Neither mud, nor a little drizzle with snow mixed in, or even a defending state champion was going to make things miserable on Anderson County’s Senior Night last Friday.

The Bearcats dominated Collins, 40-12 in the final tuneup for the state football playoffs. Anderson finished the regular season at 7-3, while Collins, last year’s state champion in Class 4A, ended at 4-6.

Anderson will host Scott High, of Kenton County, in the first round of the Class 5A tournament while Collins travels to Louisville Western to embark on its post-season journey in Class 4A.

Friday, it was just about pride for the Bearcats.

“We just wanted to win on Senior Night,” Anderson quarterback Zach Carmichael said. “I know in my freshman year (2011), we didn’t win on Senior Night and it was devastating. We just wanted to get the win and everyone was motivated.

And the 49-10 spanking that Collins had put on the Bearcats last year was still fresh in Anderson’s mind.

“Everybody was hyped all week in practice,” Anderson lineman Jarrod Cubert said. “We had a great week of practice and we were ready for some revenge.”

This, however, was not the same Collins team. Nine players from last year’s state champion are now playing college football at

Roberts qualifies for state

From staff reports

Anderson County High School cross country runner Kinsey Roberts has qualified for the state meet, to be held Saturday, Nov. 8, at the Kentucky Horse Park.

Roberts turned in a personal best of 22:05 in the Class 3A, Region 6 meet, held in Maysville Saturday.

A freshman at Anderson County, Roberts will be running in the state-wide race, which is scheduled to get underway at 1:30 p.m.

Lexi Thompson also set a personal record for the 5K race, turning in a 26:29 time, but did not qualify for the state.

Anderson had no boys qualify for the state, but Abram Gettlefinger set a personal record with a 19:24 time while Caleb Gettlefinger turned in a 22:49 time, also a personal best.

Complete Anderson County results can be found on B2.

Volleyball season comes to abrupt end in region tourney

By John Herndon

Anderson County’s volleyball season to remember ended with a night to forget last Monday.

The Lady Bearcats saw their season come to an abrupt end when Simon Kenton whipped them in three straight sets in the first round of the girls’ Eighth Region Tournament at Carroll County High School.

Simon Kenton moved into the regional semifinals, taking all three sets by identical 25-14 scores. Anderson saw what was arguably the finest

Questions and answers with deer and elk program coordinator

By Kevin Kelly

Ky. Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources

Kentucky's modern gun deer season opens statewide on Saturday, Nov. 8. When it does, Gabe Jenkins will have been in his new role as the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' deer and elk program coordinator for a little more than a month.

After earning his bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern Kentucky University, he was hired by Kentucky Fish and Wildlife in 2007 to work in the deer and elk program.

Jenkins, 30, recently sat down for an interview at Kentucky Fish and Wildlife headquarters in Frankfort. The following are excerpts from that interview.

What are the duties and responsibilities of the deer and elk program coordinator?

Jenkins: "The deer and elk coordinator conducts statewide management for white-tailed deer and elk. I oversee and conduct biological research, surveys and inventory work on both species. I work with our program's deer and elk biologists and others at Kentucky Fish and Wildlife to make recommendations for the promulgation of regulations that address problem issues associated with deer and elk. It's my goal to manage the deer and elk herds in the state to provide ample hunting opportunity, yet strike a balance between hunters and non-hunters alike."

How would you sum up the deer season so far, and what are your expectations for the remainder of it?

Jenkins: "Our September harvest has been increasing and we have been breaking our September harvest record every year. Unfortunately, we didn't break it this year. October's harvest is right in the middle when comparing it to previous years. Our youth firearms season was good considering the less than ideal weather. It was our second-highest harvest in the past eight years. The early muzzleloader hunt is very weather dependent. The weather was decent across the state and our harvest was average this year.

"We're coming off of two record harvest years. We have made a dent in some of the deer numbers. I look for our harvest to be down to where it had been prior to 2012 and 2013."

What is your assessment of the state's deer herd, estimated to num- ber about one million going into this season?

Jenkins: "We stopped stocking deer in 1999. That's not all that long ago. We have places where the numbers are good. We have places where the numbers are too high. And we have places where we need to grow the herd a little more. Especially in the southeastern part of the state; how can we get that needle to move a little to get a few more deer in that area? I think our hunters would appreciate that. The habitat can't support a huge increase but I would like to see it bump up some. That's definitely an interest of mine."

Can you foresee any potential adjustments to the zone strategy down the road?

Jenkins: "One thing that I definitely want to open up is a dialogue with our hunters. We need to have some discussions about ways to better manage our doe herd in Zone 1 counties, and how we can get hunters to be better managers of our resources in those counties. They are tasked to manage the resource. We could do a better job of management in many places in Zone 1. So how can we encourage, or make it better, for more hunters to take more does? The population needs to come down a little bit. We're planning to go on the road and talk with our hunters about ways to deal with deer numbers in Zone 1 counties. We're going to meet with the public and run some surveys. We hope to take what we learn from our discussions and come up with a new strategy to harvest more deer in Zone 1, specifically female deer."

You're a biologist but also an experienced hunter. What do you enjoy most about hunting?

Jenkins: "I enjoy going after something new. It could be a new species. It could be a new place. I love to climb up in a tree and shoot a deer, but maybe I want to shoot one with a crossbow this year or go to Colorado and shoot an elk with my bow or tackle turkeys with my bow or a fall turkey with a shotgun. My favorite thing to hunt is whatever's in season. I might try new tactics, a new place, a new style, but I love to hunt. I'm not one that prefers one weapon over the other. I've got a bow. I've got a crossbow. I've got a shotgun, a muzzleloader, a rifle. I value each one of them. You learn something different and new each time you're out there."

This year, modern gun season for deer opens Nov. 8 and continues through Nov. 17 or Nov. 23, depending on the zone. Hunters are reminded to purchase the appropriate licenses and permits and encouraged to review the 2014-15 Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide before going into the field.

some level. Still, the Titans had the firepower returning to make them the pre-season pick to win Class 4A's District 4. However, just before Collins' game with North Oldham a week earlier, the Titans and quarterback Browning Becherer, who had been ranked eighth among passers in Class 4A, parted ways. At least two other players quit. Assistant coach Tom Becherer, a long-time fixture around Shelbyville football, also left. The Titans went with freshman quarterback J.R. Lucas, who suffered a rough first half, but not from a cold rain that limited the crowd to one of the smallest in years at Anderson. Instead, it was the constant harassment from the Bearcat defensive line. Anderson senior Conner Stockton appeared to be taking up residence in the Collins backfield through the first half and harassed Lucas relentlessly. "I tried to, at least," Stockton grinned. Anderson coach Mark Peach said the Bearcats simply used the formula that has served them well throughout the season. "(Defensive coordinator Duane) Hammons gave Collins some different looks and our kids played their roles very well. Our line has been consistent all year." That Anderson would be dominant was apparent almost from the outset. While Collins punter Blanton Creque backed the Bearcats up to their own five with his first punt of the night, the Bearcats punched the ball out, established field position, then notched the win with a balanced attack that eventually saw four Anderson runners total over 64 yards on the ground. Fullback Bryndon Labhart led the Bearcats with 97 yards and two scores. Most of Labhart's production came on simple runs up the middle, one of which went for a 30-yard touchdown that put the Bearcats up 12-0. Labhart, a sophomore, ran for two scores. "Coach Peach and his staff understand that if you are going to win championship football, you are not going to go into a game to focus on anyone. You have to try to stop what they are doing. But when you have so many weapons like Anderson County does, it becomes a nightmare," Collins coach Jerry Lucas said. Throughout the first half, Anderson moved the ball at will, piling up 231 yards and 12 first downs. Meanwhile, the Anderson defense allowed just one first down and 27 yards in the first 24 minutes. The Bearcats forged a 19-0 halftime lead that could have been bigger, but an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty thwarted a drive that had reached the Collins 22 inside the final minute of the first half. Anderson extended the lead to 26-0 early in the third quarter when Labhart returned a fumble 34 yards to the Collins one. Chris Toomey did the honors for the touchdown. Collins finally got on the board on a 68-yard pass from

Lucas to Leland Cardwell late in the third quarter, making it 26-6, but the Titans never got closer. Anderson finished with 382 yards, all but 70 coming on the ground, while Collins totaled 206. Lucas believes a murderous schedule will help his team in the playoff. Of the Titans' six losses, five were to teams that were crowned district champions. The other was to Anderson. "I thought our kids fought hard all night long," Lucas said. "We gave up some big plays. I told the kids the Anderson County quarterback is so heady and does a good job of never panicking. They just do a great job." And Lucas believes Anderson could add to its run that has seen the Bearcats finish with a state runner-up, two regional titles and a regional runner-up spot in the last four years. "Obviously, our hat is off to Coach Peach and his team. I think they have a chance to go a long way in the playoffs. I told our kids that was as good a football team as will see until the fourth round of the playoffs." Anderson, likewise, feels it defeated a team that is much better than its record. "We are proud of our seniors," Peach said. "We were able to beat a quality football team on Senior Night. Collins is a good, young football team. Just give them some time. Lucas is going to be a dandy football player." Carmichael said Anderson had heard about the internal issues that plagued Collins late in the season. "We tried to ignore it," he said. "That quarterback is going to be really good. What he did is tough. I can't imagine coming in like that as a freshman." But for Anderson it was about the guys playing their final regular-season game at Warford Stadium. They've won 38 times in 50 games over the last four seasons and could be a threat to end their careers at the state finals in Bowling Green. And Friday was a time to look back. "We talked about Senior Night being a time to pause and reflect on the journey you are on," Peach said. "You think about all those great memories and experiences. You want to continue that in the present and in the future. It's a great time to pause and say thanks. "And it is a great opportunity to continue what you are doing."

ANDERSON CO. COLLEGE FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Centre stays perfect; Russell has big day for Campbellsville

Centre 35, Hendrix 26

Centre remained unbeaten with a 35-26 win over Hendrix in Conway, Ark. The Colonels outscored their hosts 21-3 in the second quarter to fuel the win. Centre is now 8-0 in NCAA Division III play. Anderson County High School graduate Steve Sims was in on seven tackles for the Colonels. Anderson graduates Seth Carmichael and Tristin Ashburn are both members of the team at Centre.

Campbellsville 58, Cumberlands 12

Anderson County High School graduate Jacob Russell threw for 385 yards and four touchdowns as the Tigers spanked Cumberlands in Williamsburg. Russell completed 25 of 36 passes and eclipsed the Campbellsville record for touchdown passes in a season with his 21st. Russell broke Ross Deaton's single-season record and moved within 103 yards of Deaton's school record (2,363) for passing yardage in a season. Russell's 385 yards is the fourth-highest offensive output in Campbellsville history. For his efforts, he was named Mid-South Conference Player of the Week. Anderson County High grad Joe Rose had a tough day for Cumberlands, missing on both of his extra point attempts. Campbellsville stands at 5-3, 2-1 in MSC West play. Cumberlands is 1-7, 0-4.

Iowa 48, Northwestern 7

Iowa jumped to a 24-0 first quarter lead and never looked back as the Hawkeyes demolished Northwestern in Iowa City. Anderson County High School graduate Chris Fitzpatrick is the long snapper for Northwestern. Northwestern fell to 3-5 on the year, 2-3 in the Big 10.

Butler 62, Morehead State 52

Butler scored 28 points off Morehead State turnovers to outlast the Eagles, 62-52, in a shootout in Indianapolis on Saturday. Morehead State piled up 706 yards and ran 98 plays to Butler's 416 yards and 59 plays but the turnovers did the Eagles in. Anderson County High School graduate Todd DeWoody is starting left guard for Morehead State. The Eagles are 3-6 on the year.

season in the history of the Lady Bearcat program come to an end at 24-8. Anderson coach Bob Hardin said things went sour for his team quickly. "We had a really good warmup and started out playing OK," he said. With the score tied at 3-3, a disputed call went against the Lady Bearcats and they never recovered. Hardin attributed things to the nerves of being in the regional tournament. (Anderson last made the region in 2012. The Lady Bearcats were eliminated in district play last year.) "We have not been missing serves and we missed seven on the night," Hardin said. "We had been passing well and had several passing errors. "Simon Kenton is a good team but nothing like some of the teams we have faced this year. We felt very good about our chances. We just had moments of yuck." Hardin said Anderson's hitters and blocker were never able to get untracked. The Lady Bearcats had only two blocks for the night. Anderson's Katy Carmichael, an all-tournament pick, paced Anderson with nine kills. Taylor Phillips added 16 assists and four digs. "We told the girls to keep their heads up as they had a lot of things to be proud of," Hardin said. "They had the most wins by an Anderson volleyball team with 24. This was the first season with single-digit losses. We had the longest winning streak (in Anderson volleyball history) at 13. "We made a good showing and ended up fifth in a powerful region. The girls worked hard all year from June 1 until (last Monday). We are so proud of them." Anderson is expected to remain strong next season as the Lady Bearcats only lose six seniors.

SENIOR NIGHT SPECIAL!

Bearcats rout Collins in regular-season finale

Collins running back Levi Brown looks for running room, but the Anderson County defense has closed all lanes. Moving in on Brown are Caleb Dowell (63), Bryndon Labhart, Braxton Bostic, Conner Stockton (78) and Ian Chilton (15). The Anderson defense limited Collins to 27 yards and one first down in the first half.

Anderson County line-backer Bryndon Labhart seems to be saying, 'Mr. Ref, we have the ball!' Collins fumbled on the play and Labhart was correct. The Bearcats recovered.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF SALE SPECIAL MASTER COMMISSIONER OF ANDERSON CIRCUIT COURT

By virtue of orders of the Anderson Circuit Court in the below listed actions, I shall proceed to offer for sale, at public auction, the real estate described herein to the highest and best bidder at the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, on Thursday, November 13, 2014 at or about 1:00 p.m. E.D.T., which real estate is located in Anderson County, Kentucky, to-wit:

SALE NO. 1: PHH Mortgage Corporation v. Larry Dial, et al., Civil Action No. 14-CI-00006, Anderson Circuit Court, Anderson County, Kentucky; said property being more commonly known as 1108 Kays Road, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky 40342, of record in Deed Book 252, Page 307, in the County Clerk's Office, Anderson County, Kentucky.

The foregoing parcel of real estate shall be sold on terms of cash deposit or cashier's check or certified check in the amount of the purchase price, or 10% down at the time of sale and the balance thereof due and payable in thirty (30) days after date of sale. The purchaser(s) of said real estate shall have the right to pay all or any part of the purchase price by cashier's or certified check on day of sale; if the purchaser(s) does not elect to pay the entire purchase price by cashier's or certified check, the Special Master Commissioner shall take from the purchaser(s) by cashier's or certified check the sum of 10% down and a good and sufficient bond with surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner payable to the Special Master Commissioner for the balance of said purchase price, and bearing interest from date of sale at the rate of 12% per annum until paid in full. Compliance with the foregoing terms shall be at the time of the sale and the requirement of good surety shall not be waived by the Special Master Commissioner under any circumstance other than prior order of the Court. The bid of any purchaser not complying with said terms shall be rejected by the Master Commissioner and the property immediately resold.

Each tract or parcel of real estate shall be sold subject to the following:

A. All ad valorem real estate taxes, currently due or delinquent, for which the purchaser(s) shall receive no credit against the purchase price;

B. Easements, restrictions, stipulations and agreements of record in the Office of the Clerk of the County Court of Anderson County, Kentucky;

C. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property;

D. Any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose; and

E. Any and all planning and zoning regulations imposed upon the subject property.

SALE NO. 1: The amount of money to be raised is the sum of $115,633.55 plus interest and costs as set out in a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Anderson Circuit Court dated September 17, 2014.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S NOTE

All prospective purchasers are advised to fully understand and consider the following:

1. All properties are sold strictly as is, with no warranties expressed or implied. Properties shall be sold at the front door of the Courthouse as indicated above.

2. Risk of loss to improvements to real estate shifts to purchaser as of date of sale. Insurance should be placed immediately by successful bidder.

3. All properties sold for less than two-thirds of appraised value subject to current owner statutory right of redemption pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statutes.

4. Rights of possession given to purchasers with deed, but holdover occupants of real estate may require additional Court action by purchaser to acquire actual possession.

5. Master Commissioner's deed warrants title only so far as authorized by the judgment, orders and proceedings of the Court, but no further. Independent title examination by successful purchaser is recommended prior to confirmation of sale.

NOTICE OF BOND SALE

The Anderson County School District Finance Corporation, will until 11 a.m., E.S.T., on November 18, 2014, receive in the office of the Kentucky School Facilities Construction Commission, Suite 102, 229 W. Main Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, competitive bids for its $9,625,000 School Building Refunding Revenue Bonds, Series of 2014, dated December 18, 2014; maturing December 1, 2015 through 2026. Specific information and required Official Bid Form Available in POS at www.civic-finance.com from Civic Finance Advisors, LLC. BQ.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, November 20, 2014, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Easements, restrictions, stipulations and agreements of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property, any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose and any and all planning and zoning regulations imposed upon the subject property

(4) Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff.

Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.

(5) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

America's Favorite Toys

Great athletes often receive a lot of awards and honors, including becoming part of a Hall of Fame. There are Hall of Fames for many sports as well as for toys.

The National Toy Hall of Fame is in Rochester, NY, and showcases over 50 toys, many of which are still around today. Bicycles, crayons, jump ropes, marbles, roller skates and yo-yos are just some of the toys on display at the National Toy Hall of Fame.

Each year, many toys are considered for the National Toy Hall of Fame, but only a few are chosen. The National Toy Hall of Fame is open most days of the year and allows visitors the chance to play with some toy favorites.

Jokes & Riddles

Q: Why did the boy take his new bike to bed with him?

A: Because he didn't want to walk in his sleep.

Q: Why did the teddy bear turn down a second helping?

That's how many Kentucky adults read a daily, Sunday or weekly newspaper during an average week.

That's more than 5 out of 6 people.

And truth be told, we like to think that 6th grader might be listening while one of the other five reads out loud.
